

REFERENDUM PROJECT UPDATES

What is Happening with the Construction Projects?

School is back in session and our referendum projects are beginning to come to life! Administration, along with ISG and Kraus-Anderson have been busy over the summer completing the next steps for the elementary school gym addition and high school CTE lab.

Elementary Gym

The School Board accepted bids for the elementary school project and selected contractors at their August 11 meeting. Following this, staff, students, and contractors joined us for the official groundbreaking on the elementary school gym addition that took place on August 14th. Construction barriers went up on August 20th and dirt is officially moving.

High School Addition

Design development continues for the high school CTE lab and fitness center as administration and staff have reviewed plumbing, electrical and HVAC for the spaces, as well as finishes. This phase is over 50% complete and further development of construction documents continues. The design for the CTE lab was developed after several community task force meetings, staff meetings, and important input from local businesses.

Due to construction, the current long jump, triple jump, and pole vault areas will need to be relocated and the final drawings for these spaces have also been completed. In preparation for a groundbreaking later this fall, construction barriers have gone up at the high school near the Heider Center parking lot.

What Is Next?

- High School design development cost estimate approval from board.
- Complete high school construction documents.
- High School groundbreaking.
